About EngAge BC

Established in 2019, EngAge BC has a mandate to support the distinct needs of private pay independent living, assisted living, long-term and home health operators. EngAge BC is responsible for developing and operating a suite of unique programs and marketing initiatives that support member sites across the province.

About the BC Care Providers Association

For more than 45 years the BC Care Providers Association (BCCPA) has been the leading voice representing non-government seniors' care in British Columbia. Every year BCCPA's over 400 member organizations provide nearly 30,000 seniors with residential care, assisted living, home care and home support, with increasing demand in the years ahead. BCCPA is now putting its professional insight, experience and well-earned reputation for seniors living and care leadership to work as the producer of Seniors Living Expo & Job Fair 2022, a unique consumer show celebrating Canada's older adults.

About the Seniors Living Market

Leading Canadian businesses already understand that Canada and British Columbia are aging faster than ever before. They also know that this growing wave of older adults presents tremendous opportunities immediately and in the increasingly busy years ahead.

In just 20 short years the number of seniors living in British Columbia will reach an expected 1.6 million, more than double the number of seniors in 2013. In fact, by 2030, the year when the youngest baby boomers will reach age 65, one in four Canadians will be over 65, making seniors living and care an both a necessity and a choice for families, governments and seniors themselves.

This unprecedented growth in long-term care, assisted living, independent living, home health mirrors the changing face of our aging families and communities. It also includes a growing demand for a broader range of seniors' services, programs and products. Make no mistake, today's older adults are very different than previous generations. They are better educated, wealthier, living longer and, together with their families, are demanding the broadest possible range of products, services, care and lifestyles. Together, EngAge BC and the BC Care Providers Association understand this growing market and the changing needs of older Canadians and their families.
